Professor Chang, head of Hon Hai Precision Industry Co., Ltd., the world’s largest contract electronics assembler, combined his drive and business acumen to create the Hon Hai empire. It was a vision that founder, Terry Gou, was an early investor in. "Terry asked me, ‘Why don’t you come in and see me?’” said Chang, who was then a young executive during Terry Gou’s days as a lawyer. "He was very kind and invited me to his office," said Chang. "He said, ‘I want to show you this computer company’s operations and see what you think.’"

The meeting took place in Alliance Fiber Optic Products, a company Gou had invested in AFOP.

"Terry asked me, ‘Why don’t you come in and see me?’” said Chang, who was then a young executive during Terry Gou’s days as a lawyer. "He was very kind and invited me to his office," said Chang. "He said, ‘I want to show you this computer company’s operations and see what you think.’"
